RE: WEDDING ANNIVERSARY GIFT

Dear Kay,

I am writing what you would call a thank you note – a note of thanks, showing my gratitude – for the frankly, I would say you would call, the love you've shown for the past 52 years – that is half a century and two years tacked on for good behavior. Now that's a joke, a significant indication of humor still coursing through these, still a something important in my life, and in yours too presumably I presume.

In part as a matter of course, in fact, I'd like to include in this, what is considered a thank you to most people, with what you would call underwear, but not, but the kind that you could call, something with lace material and sheer, a sheer appearance, you might say. It comes, you see, and it will be seen, complete and neatly folded in an efficient and, what you would say would be an alluring package, something the consumer, unions and Wall Street would all agree, do all agree, have all agreed, is a something more or less along the lines of you would say sexy.

Now, you can tell where I bought these, where these were bought was Victoria Secret, I bought them there. Some people might call these things, they could be considered racy, the underwear is racy and the store is too, but the underwear is the important part of this raciness. That said, the committee and I, and I especially, I would hope that you might, that it would be possible for you to visit, to make a discrete entrance to the Watergate, where there will be a room there named Room 233, with a key, the plastic key that that's a card for, much like your typical credit card key that most people these days use, the kind that as a key unlocks the door to a room, in this case, room 233, as I said.

In addition, I am enclosing a, they, the media, call this thing a gift certificate to your favorite, the location where you would say hair is done, an ideal location, a hairdo parlor, I suppose you'd say. Your hairdo parlor would be even more accurate. That's what I'm hearing on the floor at any rate. Or someone said it at any rate. Because while I like to say that I do in fact, while your – you’d call it hair – I would too, mind you, don’t get me wrong – but, to my point, your hair is too, well, in military terms, the stationary status of your hair is a type of, it runs a risk that puts affection, you would call it, affection at risk, not infection, mind you, affection. With an A.

Your hair, what you would say, your mission at this point is unsupported and unfunded, the funds are there, but the will to fund it, while there too, has to meet some high standards, those of the last election, what was set by the voice of the constituency. So the salt and pepper has to, well, we don’t want to be too strident until the committee rules on this issue are issued as a body from the committee, but the combination of black on the one hand and in the other corner the mixture of white, is one of the prime indices of the perm and that you specifically had it in college was the fact that it was shorter and darker, crisper even, and now the hair you don’t have outside college, or that college no longer has with you and alternately, as the committee sees it, you with college, that hair, I say, is not bringing the attraction that hair with less of what you would call salt, but really is a significant sign of aging, the proper aging that is properly expected of people who age, that significant sign is in need of some redress.

It is for this reason, this is why I am also sending along the certificate, it’s perfectly, a completely authenticated certificate which the GAO has authenticated many times in the past, or ones like it at any rate are ones it has made authenticated. This certificate, what you would call a gift kind of certificate, I would say, is for the use by you, is for your use, should you like to meet Senator Inhofe, me, at the pre-designated room which was mentioned, which you would say I would have mentioned and did mention as part of the mission parameters which the Senate fully supports. But this should not be considered a stipulation for approval of the mission, but it is only an advisory committee suggestion, you would say, floated by one of the members, who will remain, who wished not to be named.

If at any point in the mission, you feel uncomfortable, if there’s discomfort, whether due to what you’d call the air conditioning unit, the setting on it, set too high, or on what you’d call my underwear, the boxer sort of underwear, the kind that comes lower over one’s shanks, covers more than the typical, the customary use by the white, more tightly clinging fashion, you’d call tighty-whiteys, not these, mind you, but the boxers, the fly of which reads “The Law Is Meant to Be Broken” written over the aperture, the fly where the boxers, you’d say have a little give. So, you would say that a little less merry widow and a little more garter, or a little more thong and a little less demi-bra, but either way, according to most polls, that is, in point of fact, undressing at its barest, in its strictest sense, what makes the undressing go as far as it does, which is really what the mission is about, that and the hair and that’s really about it.

Love,

“Jimmy Mount”
